

Our Ministry To The Family

11 Easy-and Free!*-Ways to Say "I Love You"

or almost free!*

by Beverly Dillard

To strengthen unions, marriage experts advise couples to "make weekly dates" or "go away on a couple's weekend." Those are great ideas, but let's be realistic: how often can busy couples expect to drop everything and get away? These 11 quick and simple ways to express love let busy couples rekindle romance among the chaos of everyday life.

1. Embrace your past. Assemble a scrapbook together, pull out your wedding video, or write your own personal romance story. Reliving special memories together is a great way to strengthen your bond.

2. Be kids together. Have a pillow fight, challenge each other to a game of hopscotch, or cuddle on the couch and laugh as you watch cartoons.

3. Wrap your mate in love. While your sweetie showers, sneak his towel into the dryer, and as he steps out, wrap him in fluffy warmth. Or use the same idea to warm her feet when she snuggles in bed on a chilly autumn night.

4. Speak the languages of love. Surprise your "amante" (Italian for "lover") with some international sweet talk. Access an exhaustive list of ways to say "I love you" in different languages at www.electpress.com/loveandromance/iloveyou.htm.

5. Write love notes to each other. Spell it out in his oatmeal with raisins, on her dashboard with yarn, or use lipstick on your bathroom mirror.

Compose your own poem, or borrow a verse from Song of Songs, or just write "I love you."

6. Turn on the charm. Who says you have to stop flirting once you're married? At your next party, wink at him across a crowded room, or slip your arm around her as you make social small talk. That personal connection amid the crowd is like saying, "This is great, but I'd rather be with you!"

7. Connect online. E-mail your spouse throughout the day, just to say you're thinking of him.

8. Remember the little things. When you step in to help with the day-to-day "drudge" chores-making dinner, bathing the kids-your spouse knows she's appreciated and loved. And completing a chore for your sweetie frees more time and energy for the two of you to enjoy other activities together.

9. Send it snail mail. Take time to write an encouraging note, slap a stamp on it, and mail it. Your spouse will love the surprise-especially since it won't be a credit card bill or junk mail!

10. Celebrate everything. Most couples celebrate the anniversary of their marriage or first date, but how about the anniversary of your engagement, or first kiss? (If you don't remember, make it up!) There have been all kinds of milestones throughout your relationship, so mark each one with flowers, a card, or a romantic interlude.

11. Just say it. Your spouse needs to hear those three simple words daily. Whisper it, sing it, shout it. Say it.

*Copyright: Marriage Partnership Magazine, Fall 2005.
Reprinted with permission.*

There will be an open house at the new home of Cal & Lori Lord at 11 Lincoln Avenue from 2:00- 5:00 p.m. on Sunday, September 2.

Worship returns to 10:30 a.m. on Sunday, September 9. Invite your friends and co-workers to join you this fall.

Our Ministry To The Family

Share the Bible with Your Children

In A History of the Baptist, historian Robert G. Torbet writes that Baptists have had a “constant witness to the supremacy of the Scriptures as the all-sufficient and sole norm for faith and practice in the Christian life” (Valley Forge: Judson Press, 1973, p.513). And so, for us as Baptists living with children, it is important that we model and share this commitment to the Bible. I recall some of the ways my family helped me learn to value Scripture:

Curled up on Mother’s lap, I listened as she shared stories from a Bible with pictures in warm, vivid colors that appealed to something deep within me. The warmth of Mother’s lap and the intimate times we shared as we talked about the pictures and stories nurtured my love for Scripture.

Every morning, I arose to see my grandmother sitting in her rocking chair reading the Scriptures. When I was old enough to read, I was given a Bible of my own and encouraged to read it.

On our wall, along with pictures of family members, hung a picture depicting Jesus in the temple at age 12 (a gift from an uncle) and another of Jesus in the Garden of Gethsemane. Through these images, the witness of Scripture was woven into the fabric of my daily life, gently reminding me to be about my Father’s business and to pray that God’s will, not mine, be done.

Reading selected Scriptures with children on a regular basis teaches the value of the Bible. Long, dull family devotions may have the opposite effect, though, so it’s important that times for sharing Scripture be pleasant and enjoyable.

If we really want to teach bible concepts, we must live them:

Telling is important, because it makes the values, meanings, and perspectives conscious. Beyond that, however, we also teach them in the way we live. This is the most powerful teacher. It is what gives the words power and makes the real.

Here are some suggestions, drawn from The Bible: A Child’s Playground, for sharing the Bible with children.

Ages 4 to 6: Young children like stories. They can repeat some elements of a story, act out simple stories, and draw pictures to illustrate them. When teaching these children, it is best to share stories and psalms with concrete objects, actions, and images, because the children think concretely, not logically or abstractly. They sometimes devise metaphors but seldom understand the metaphors used by others. Young children like to hear the same story repeated. They may picture the Holy Spirit as a ghost like Casper or conclude that God is mean because he drowned the animals and people who didn’t get on Noah’s Ark. Instead of correcting children’s images, it is better to demonstrate that their thoughts are valued by listening and trying to understand their ideas.

Ages 6 to 9: Most children in this age group can think logically about concrete things and can understand that the Bible includes poetry and letters as well as stories. They are literal and don’t understand abstractions. When they ask questions, it is good to turn questions back to them (“What do you think?”) and let them articulate their understandings. Instead of evaluating their ideas, engage in conversation (“That’s an interesting way to think about it”) or ask open-ended questions (“Why do you think Jesus did that?”). Encourage children to create conversations among Bible Characters (“What do you think Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego said to their friends later?”).

Ages 9 to 12: Older children may resist engagement with the bible, especially if their earlier views on Bible texts were devalued or criticized. If adults have imposed meanings on the text, they may think they know all they need to know and have no need of further Bible study. This is unfortunate because older children have many more cognitive, affective, and social resources to bring to Bible study. They are beginning to think abstractly and to deal with ideas, possibilities, and metaphors, which means they can compare and contrast Bible stories. They can use books and the Internet to research topics, and they can explore the meaning of parables or write poems using patterns from the Psalms. And with a growing awareness of others’ viewpoints, they can engage in role play or retell a Bible story from the perspectives of different characters.

1. Jeffrey D. Jones, Parenting with Love and Laughter: Finding God in Family Life (San Francisco: Jossey-Bass, 2002), pp. 1-2.
2. Gobbel, A. Roger and Gobbel, Gertrude G. The Bible: A Child’s Playground (Philadelphia: Fortress Press, 1986).

A Powerful Witness

A Passion For Youth

Karen Wheaton returned to her Alabama roots and launched a revolution among young people who were hungry to know God.

By Suzy A. Richardson

Gospel singer Karen Wheaton discovered the power of her voice as a young woman, singing her way onto the high-profile stages of mega-ministries across America. But she discovered her voice's real power away from the bright lights of stages and on the dark streets of a small Southern town.

Karen recalls the drive-after a move back to her hometown in 1998-that ignited a brand-new passion within her heart for the youth. "These kids were sitting on the hoods of their cars in the middle of the night," she recalls. "They were just wasting their lives and had no purpose for living. They had no idea who God really was; they equated God with religion and with dead churches."

A mom to two teenagers, Karen's vision was huge-she hoped to stir a sleeping generation. She started small-taking cookies to a local youth group every week. That small step quickly morphed into a movement filled with hungry high school and college students from across the nation.

As the founder of Karen Wheaton Ministries (karenwheaton.com) Karen oversees a handful of youth outreach projects including The Ramp, a denominationally neutral meeting ground where an estimated 1,200 students gather each month to worship and pray.

On any given month, Karen gazes into a sea of students hungry for a real experience with a real God. After spending years performing on platforms where thousands watched her sing to God, she now stands on the ultimate platform-watching a generation on fire sing to God.

FROM MOM TO MINISTRY Karen recalls a childhood cemented by the ties of family and church. Her early years were nearly picture-perfect-her mom and dad provided a safe and loving home where she flourished.

There was no divorce. There was no drama. And life was good.

"I had awesome, strong Christian parents," she says. "Because of that, I was raised in the church."

She recalls being just 8 and "experiencing a real God."

"I had an intense hunger for God... to know the God that I had seen in my mother and my grandmother and just to know Him for myself," she says. "I remember like it was last night, being 8 years old with a heavenly language pouring out of me like rivers... It really impacted my life."

At the age of 11, Karen discovered an anointing to sing before God and before crowds. "I was singing one night, and I sensed a presence flowing through me that was something different," she says. "I knew that whatever this was, I wanted it all of the time."

And so she sought to sing for the Lord at every turn. In the late '70s, she toured with Thurlow Spurr's Festival of Praise, a pioneering Christian choir and band.

As a college student, she was invited by Jim Bakker to sing on the platform of PTL. The dramatic alto later performed on the platforms of both the Jimmy Swaggart and Benny Hinn ministries.

Karen was living the life she dreamed about as a little girl, singing before scores of people and touring the country with her husband by her side. And though she was passionate about performing, her favorite role was a mommy to two little girls.

After 13 years of marriage, Karen learned one of her biggest, most painful lessons. "In early 1995, I went through a divorce," she says. "The pain of infidelity in a marriage runs deep. You are so angry; you just think: Will I ever get over this? Will I ever live again? Will I ever trust again?"

She did trust again-the moment she discovered the healing power of forgiveness. "Only through the power of God can you love and trust people and truly, truly forgive; and in forgiving them you are freeing yourself."

"I bless him," she says, adding that she stalks about her divorce only in hopes of helping other women struggling with similar situations. "The Lord so blessed me and taught me so many things concerning forgiveness, and how that in the pain of betrayal there is hope."

Her experiences not only changed her view of the world; they also changed the way she sang about it. "Experiencing this helped me to understand the pain of the real world, so it opened up my heart to sing different," she explains. "I have often heard people say [that] once you have had your heart broken, that you will sing different, and it is true."

A HEART FOR YOUTH 1998 was a year of new beginnings that took Karen back to her roots. With two teenage daughters in tow, she drove back home to Hamilton, Alabama, a simple town with just under 7,000 residents.

After witnessing a lack in the youth of her hometown, Karen wanted to reach out to them-even if that meant just baking for a few kids in a local youth group every week. Still adjusting to life back in a small town, Karen was nervous about getting involved with the youth.

You have your hands full with two girls already, she told herself. "I was like, 'Lord, that is so not me.' I felt like I was not their style. Then the Lord said in my spirit-and this was the real hook for me; 'What you invest in the lives of other young people, you will reap in your children.'"

After just one meeting with a local youth group, Karen could see beyond a group of gangly teenagers and into the eyes and hearts of a generation hungry for change. "One service with a group of seven kids made me fall in love with a generation," she says.

A Powerful Witness

That meeting sparked within Karen a vision to provide a platform where youth could worship and pray unrestrained. She bought and transformed an old grocery store into a facility where the youth meet for monthly conferences called The Ramp, a moniker that symbolizes "a platform that takes you to the next level" and whose vision is "to facilitate an encounter with a real God."

Responding to the need, Karen Wheaton Ministries kicked off two more programs—Chosen, a group whose purpose is to mentor potential future leaders for the ministry, and Project Ezekiel (projectezekiel.org), a network of youth pastors and youth leaders whose vision is to awaken a generation.

Though she reaches out to teens and college students, Karen also embraces an even younger generation through events such as Josiah Generation Kids Ramp, an event that attracts youth groups from across the country.

Recently, Karen united with leaders across the country at TheCall Nashville, an event where youth from across the globe filled and entire stadium to pray for revival in the nation.

With a vision to build a summer camp capable of housing thousands of kids, Karen recently purchased 120 acres behind her home. In addition, she hopes to launch a school on the property.

From where she is standing Karen sees a generation of youth refusing to settle for the stale religion of their parents. "They are not just going to sit back in pews and wait for the rapture," she says.

"I don't mean that to be rude, but a lot of my generation has done that. A lot of my generation just goes to church... and they just sit around and sing about heaven. I love heaven, and I sing about heaven, but there is a world that is going to hell, and this generation is taking on that mission."

Chosen—the traveling music, dance and drama ministry pictured above—is based at The Ramp. Each month, they are joined by approximately 1,200 young people who gather for worship and prayer.

STIRRING A GENERATION She calls them her spiritual children—a sort of restless, 30-and-under crowd looking beyond the things of the world for fulfillment. They are educated, technologically savvy and they seemingly have it all at their fingertips. But they want more.

"They don't want a lot of the things that took my generation down," she explains. "They're not just going to live a life of religious ritual. They're not going to be satisfied with church twice a week and with what this world calls success... This generation has had all that and they know it's just not there."

Instead, she explains, they want authentic experiences. "They are radical in worship. They are radical in their passion for God... They are not taken by hype or by religious facade," she says. "They demand the authentic, and I love that."

Perhaps it is the reason kids are flocking away from the traditional churches and into places like The Ramp, Karen says, pointing to a recent statistic revealing that 90 percent of American children do not return to church after the age of 18. "There is not a middle ground, they want something real," she says.

Karen is no longer simply hoping to awaken a generation—they are already stirring and lives are changing. "I am seeing them totally delivered," Karen says. "I am watching them walk in to a place bound to pornography, perversion, cutting, homosexuality, drug addictions... and within days, I am seeing them worship God with no chains, no fear of man.

"I have been raised in the church all of my life, but I have stood on a platform and heard the sound of a generation," Karen says. "There is something coming out of them that is indescribable—kids that get caught in the gaze of God.

"I see in them a calling that is unique to this generation, and I believe that this generation will see what my generation has longed to see" she adds.

Today, Karen stands back with a smile. She has proven that even through the pain and confusion that life sometimes hands us, God wants us to be spiritual giants in the world of our children—and in the world of His children everywhere. "More than anything else, I would want to be known as a woman who really, really loved the real God, and really, really loved His kids."

90 percent of American children do not return to church after the age of 18. "There is not a middle ground, they want something real," she says.

*Copyright SpiritLed Woman Magazine
August-September 2007.
Reprinted with permission.*

The Sports Pages

Bill Discordia: Our Newest Hall of Famer

Bill Discordia quickly established himself as a force to be reckoned with when he joined our softball team in 1990. He led the team in games played (19), hits (37), doubles (8), home runs (8) and RBI (32) while batting .536 and winning the Rookie of the Year and MVP Awards.

He followed that up with an equally good year in 1991 when he batted .520 and set the record for homers in a season (11) and again knocked in 30 runs.

In 1992 he played in only seven games but he still made his presence known by knocking in 10 runs and batting and even .500.

Bill came back strong in 1993 and helped the team win their first league championship. He batted .594 with a .714 on base percentage and clubbed another 7 homeruns to lead the team.

Bill played a solid second base and filled in at first when needed. More than anything else, he will be remembered for his quiet demeanor and calming presence on and off the field as he helped shepherd many young players in his five years on the team.

All Time Player List

Chris Adams 06-07	Mike Lavallee 92-95
Daryl Alves 02-05	Bryan Lawson 92
D Brtkwski 96-98, 00,07	Chris Lonergan 04
Matt Bell 03	Joe Lopez 05-06
Tom Bell 92	Bryan Lord 96
Brian Bernardo 99-00	*Cal Lord 87-00, 06-07
Norm Boulay 99-03	Jason Mandeville 04-07
Mark Bradley 99-01	Ken Marsden 00 - 04
Matt Brick 99	Roland Martinez 99
Curt Brockway 88	Ray Meier 96
Hal Brockway 92	Lee McFalls 91-96, 99
Jeff Brockway 99, 05	Dave Mehling 03-06
Mary Brockway 88	*Andy Miller 97-99
Mal Brown 89-99	Dave Moon 04-05
Jeff Buddington 91	Steve Moon 02-07
John Calash 98-99	Rich Morgan 07
Tony Calkins 93	Mike Muires 92
Chip Chaffee 04-05	Jeff Nguyen 93-94
Craig Chapman 07	Rich Ozga 99-01
Dale Chenette 94	Steve Parker 87
Mike Colucci 99	Nelson Petrone 99
Tom Couture 99	Ted Phillips 95-97
Leon Dalbec 87	Pete Piaczic 99
*Mark Damien 87, 89	Corey Poore 87-91
Al Dart 96-99	Dave Poore 89-91
Wendy Dart 88	*Eric Poore 87-92
Ray Dassat 99	Rob Porter 88
Adele DiBiagio 87	Scott Rapoza 98-03
*Bill Discordia 90-94	Gary Reeves 91
Mark Dunaj 93-99, 01	Rob Renaud 92
*Bob Duntz 87-88,90-01	Amy Rezendes 87,89
Kat Duntz 87,91,95,97	Casey Rezendes 02-07
Ken Duntz 87	*G Rzneds 87-99, 04-07
Tim Duntz 87-88	Christian Rice 00
Dan Dutrumble 06-07	Greig Rosano 87
Kip Effman 02	Andy Royce 97-98
Bill Ericson 92-95, 99	Bruce Royce 88-92
Carlos Estralla 01	Curtis Royce 96-03
*Mark Ferguson 99-03	*Dv Royce 88-95,97-98
Joel Fishkin 97-99	Frank Royce 97
Sharon Fishkin 97, 99	Tim Ryan 97
Steve Flanders 05	Edgar Santana 06
Scott Gilbert 04	John Saparita 01
Dennis Girardin 90	Bill Shick 93-96
Brian Gldn 94-99, 02-07	Ken Sherwood 88
Jeff Goldin 07	Tim Skorinski 04
Nick Grange 06	Mike Spicer 93
Fred Green Jr. 02-03	Mark Staron 99-03
*F Green Sr 96-02, 04-07	Mike Staron 92-05
Jeffrey Hamilton 99	Bruce Startz 92-97
Tina Harrington 97	Fred Stone 99-05, 07
Armin Harris 04-07	Chris Stroud 90
Ray Henry 07	Dick Strouse 88
Jeremy Hornyak 02-03	George Strouse 87-90
Daryl Jackson 90	Jim Strouse 89
Bill Jay 94	C Swartzlander 92
Victor Jiminez 88-91	Gary Teczar 87-94
Justin Kazarian 07	Don Terry 99
Mike Keithley 89-92	Jason Tinelle 04
Jeff Kirkland 96	Chris Vaillert 07
Ken Kreger 95-07	*Marc Vaillert 87-99
Krystal LeBlanc 05	Mike Waggoner 92
	Corey Watford 01
	Chris Wilczek 06
Tom Lacey 04	John Wisheart 06-07
Glenn Lamb 99	* denotes Hall of Famer for Softball
Wayne LaMothe 00-03
Chris Lavallee 06-07

Lifetime Records

Games	At Bats	Runs	Hits
291 G Rezendes	835 G Rezendes	305 Mi Staron	390 B Duntz
282 C Lord	796 C Lord	280 C Lord	382C Lord
255 K Kreger	735 Mi Staron	260 B Duntz	369 Mi Staron
241 Mi Staron	696 K Kreger	250 F Green Sr	331G Rezendes
225 M Vaillancourt	642 M Vaillancourt	229 G Rezendes	305 F Green Sr

Doubles	Triples	HR	RBI
79 Mi Staron	32 F Green Sr	48 B Duntz	275 B Duntz
58 F Green Sr	23 M Vaillancourt	38 F Green Sr	237 F Green Sr
56 B Duntz	21 K Marsden	37 D Royce	200 G Rezendes
40 G Rezendes	17 B Duntz	30 B Discordia	195 C Lord
34 D Royce	16 Tie	30 B Ericson	187 Mi Staron

Walks	Times on Base	Batt Avg	On Base %
105 K Kreger	505C Lord	.679 C Chaffee	.710 C Chaffee
84 M Vaillancourt	478 Mi Staron	.649 M Ferguson	.700 M Ferguson
70 C Lord	446 B Duntz	.619 B Duntz	.673 D Alves
69 Mi Staron	410 K Kreger	.593 F Green Sr	.667 B Duntz
51 B Goldin	409 G Rezendes	589 B Ericson	.655 A Miller

Single Season Records

Games	At Bats	Runs	Hits
26 M Dunaj 94	76 A Miller 97	41 C Rezneds 03	47 C Chaffee 04
26 G Rezendes 94	76 M Dunaj 94	39 C Chaffee 04	47 B Duntz 92
25 M Brown 94	76 B Duntz 92	38 A Miller 97	46 M Ferguson 00
25 L McFalls 94	74 D Royce 90	36 F Green 00	45 A Miller 97
25 M Vaillncrt 94	73 C Rezendes 03	36 F Green 99	44 F Green Sr 05
			44 C Rezendes 03

Doubles	Triples	HR	RBI
15 M Staron 04	8 K Marsden 03	15 C Chaffee 04	69 C Chaffee 04
13 C Chaffee 04	7 F Green Sr 05	13 B Ericson 94	46 C Chaffee 05
11 M Staron 05	6 F Green 00	11 B Dscrdia 91	44 B Ericson 94
10 C Chaffee 05	6 F Green 99	10 F Green 97	36 F Green 99
9 3 tied	6 K Marsden 01	10 B Ericson 95	34 B Duntz 91

Walks	Times on Base	Batt Avg	On Base %
16 S Moon 04	55 A Miller 97	.746 C Chaffee	.833 R Ozga
14 C Lord 97	53 C Chaffee 04	.742 M Ferguson	.820 D Moon
13 K Kreger 98	52 C Rezendes 03	.739 R Ozga	.797 M Ferguson
12 B Startz 97	51 M Ferguson 00	.727 F Green	.791 C Chaffee

The Sports Pages

All Time Bowling Bests

High Average Men

209 K Kreger 02
200 F Green 01
199 K Kreger 05
198 F Green 03
196 F Green 00
192 C Welch 05
192 K Kreger 00
190 F Green 99
189 B Duntz 98
187 K Kreger 99

High Average Women

168 B Bray 93
166 B Bray 94
158 B Bray 92
157 L Lord 03
156 A Cofer 99
155 A Cofer 96
154 S Fishkin 03
153 S Fishkin 02
153 A Brockway 00
152 A Cofer 02

High Game Men

288 C Welch 05
279 F Green 99
278 F Green 03
278 B Duntz 95
268 K Kreger 04
267 K Kreger 01
266 AJ Dart 97
265 K Kreger 05
264 F Green 00
259 K Kreger 02,06
259 F Green 04

High Game Women

257 L Lord 04
220 A Cofer 96
220 N Girardin 96
217 A Cofer 99
215 N Bell 02
214 C Morse 98
214 N Girardin 95
213 L Kreger 00
213 N Girardin 98
212 L Lord 03

High Series Men

763 K Kreger 05
733 C Welch 05
720 K Kreger 00
715 K Kreger 02
710 K Kreger 06
700 G Arzamarski 07

High Series Women

587 L Howe 00
575 B Bray 93
574 A Cofer 96
558 C Morse 98
557 L Lord 05
555 B Bray 92

High Game HCP Men

306 B Duntz 95
305 C Welch 05
297 J Hornyak 02
287 F Green 99
280 F Green 03
280 B Ericson 95
279 M Brick 99
277 H Calkins 04
276 K Kreger 04
276 F Green 00

High Game HCP Women

308 L Lord 04
279 L Kreger 00
273 N Bell 02
268 C Morse 98
267 G Green 01
265 N Girardin 98
264 A Phillips 06
264 N Girardin 96
264 N Girardin 95
263 S Fishkin 98

High Series HCP Men

784 C Welch 05
781 K Kreger 05
768 K Kreger 00
752 D Girardin 98
739 G Arzamarski 07
727 F Green 99

High Series HCP Wmn

746 L Kreger 00
731 L Howe 00
723 C Morse 98
720 N Bell 03
718 S Fishkin 98

Sharon Fishkin Rolls Her Way into The Hall of Fame

Sharon Fishkin won her first league championship last year but she has been a winner since she first stepped onto the lanes in 1997. She teamed up with her husband and her Uncle Harry that first season and moved to the head of the class. Sharon maintained a 153 average for both 2002 and 2003 to establish herself as one of our top women bowlers all time.

Last season she helped propel her team to the League Championship and this season she has excelled and is a big reason the Fishtones have been at or near the top all season long. Her recognition is long overdue.

The Holy Rollers in 2007

The Green Team

April Phillips
Al Phillips
Gary Arzamarski
Tony Antonino

The Littles

Laura Kreger
Ken Kreger
Sharon Rapuano
Don Rapuano

Fishtone

Sandy Stone
Fred Stone
Sharon Fishkin
Joel Fishkin

The Old Testaments

Cal Lord
Lori Lord
Adele DiBiagio
George Rezendes

The All Kins

Carol Calkins
Polly Rolfe
Debbie Church
Fred Church

3 Saints Plus One

Bill Shaw
John Ross
Brian Fage
Tim

Misfits

Maureen Couture
Jeff Provost
Daver Squires

Wings of an Angel

Zelda Earle
Bruce Fellows
Kristen Deptulski
Scot Rapoza

The All Time Baptist Bowler - Holy Roller List

Amelia Adams, Heidi Adams, Daryl Alves, Tony Antonino, Gary Arzamarski, Karen Barber, Matt & Nancy Bell, Natasha Charles Bonaparte, *Barbara & Oliver Bray, Matt Brick, Amy Brockway, Jeff Brockway, Curt & Mary Brockway, Amanda Calkins, *Bob & Lucy Calkins, Carol Calkins, *Harry Calkins, Sandy Callendar, Frank & Susan Chaluto, Ken Chapman, Fred & Debbie Church, Maurenn Couture, Chris Creamer, *Adele DiBiagio Cofer, Steve Contois, A. J. Dart, Al Dart Wendy Dart, June Deptulski, Kristen Deptulski, Petra Dickson, Cheryl & Mark Dunaj, Beverly Duntz, Bob Duntz, Kathy Duntz, Ken Duntz, Tim Duntz, Zelda Earle, Bill & Jennifer Ericson, Melanie Ericson, Celeste Lavallee Etlinger, Linda Evans, Brian Fage, Bruce Fellows, Joel & *Sharon Fishkin, Carol Foster, Pam Fraser, Gayl Fullerton, Dennis & Nancy Girardin, Brian Goldin, Fred Green Jr., Gwyn & Fred Green Sr., Stacia Green, Amber Grillo, Rosemary & Terry Hanrahan, Trisha Hanrahan, Jeremy Hornyak, Brian & Laura Howe, Kathy & Dan Hundley, Pete Ingoglia, Bill Jackson, Bill Jackson Jr., Jane Jackson, Mary Jane Jackson, Sarah Kallen, Lisa Kenny, John Kozak, Ken & Laura Kreger, Grace Latham, Kay Lautzenheiser, Cal & *Lori Lord, *Paul Lorraine, Susan Lupienski, Joe Madore, Jamie Madore, Paul Mager, Les & Rosie Main, Melinda Maynard, Andy Michaud, Reo Michaud, Andy & Nancy Miller, Joe & Lora Mineau, Jane Morris, Cindy Morse, Wayne Morse Sr., Wayne Morse Jr., Regina Grillo Mynes, Diane Nesselrode, Vicki Page, Albert & April Phillips, Mark Pilletere, Eileen Potter, Jeff Provost, Ed Quinlan, Scot Rapoza, Don & Sharon Rapuano, *Amy Rezendes, April Rezendes, Casey Rezendes, George Rezendes, Fran & Mark Rogers, James & Polly Rolfe, Dasa Rosaker, John Ross, Dawn Rowe, Dave Royce, Frank Royce, Debbie Muires Sandherr, Nancy Schuster, Bill Shaw, Chris Shaw, Michael Shaw, Bill Sheehan, Laura Sheldon, Don Shogren, Leanne Shogren, Les Shull, Kathy Smith, Dave Squires, Carrie Thompson, Mariah Thomson, Carrie Thompson, Stephanie Thompson, Cliff Vanase, Michelle Vaswani, Nick Vaswani, Betsey Ward, Ron Watson, Chip & Connor Welch, Will Willey

*denotes Hall of Fame